Dan Meyer

Co-Founder and CEO
Nehemiah Manufacturing Co.

Dan Meyer is co-founder and CEO of Nehemiah Manufacturing, a company whose mission is to build brands, create jobs, and change lives through employment and whole life coaching in the inner-city of Cincinnati. Nehemiah operates near St. Vincent de Paul's West End Outreach Center. Before founding Nehemiah, Dan co-founded and led Changing Paradigms, until it was sold to oneCare, where he spent three years overseeing the Changing Paradigms Division. From 1978-1994, Dan spent 16 years with Procter & Gamble, Quaker Oats, and the Drackett Cos in a variety of marketing, sales, and general management positions.

Dan received his bachelor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton Business School in 1978. Dan resides in Cincinnati with his wife of 31 years and is the proud father of three girls and has a 3-year old granddaughter.
