Lana Durban-Scott

Vice President, General Manager for WRTV
E.W. Scripps

Lana Durban Scott is Vice President, General Manager for WRTV, the ABC affiliate for the E.W. Scripps Television Station Group based in Indianapolis. She works closely with news directors, directors of new media and general managers to develop and implement strategic plans that result in quality journalism across all platforms. In addition, she helps manage a system of resource sharing and best practices across the company's 24 television stations.

Prior to joining the Scripps corporate team, Lana worked in a variety of management roles at WEWS, the ABC television station in Cleveland, Ohio. She has earned a regional Edward R. Murrow award for excellence in journalism as well as regional Emmys and Ohio Press Club Awards.

Lana graduated from John Carroll University with a BA in Communications. She is part of the Cincinnati USA Regional Chamber's WE Lead Class 9.

Lana and her husband, Jason live in Columbia Tusculum and volunteer with Buddy Up which teaches developmentally challenged children and adults in the Tri-State to play tennis.

Francis of Assisi taught "it is in giving that we receive" and I strive to live that principle every day which led me to volunteer with St. Vincent DePaul, specifically, the Adopt a Family program (now Christmas Together) for the past eight years. My husband and I are only children and we do not have kids, so I believe it is our mission to provide hope for families struggling during what is supposed to be the most magical time of the year. Lana is an active member of the External Relations Committee.
