Brittany Sparks

City of Cincinnati
Risk Management
Administrative Technician

Since 2013, Brittany Sparks has approached her work at Greater Cincinnati Water Works with dedication, creativity, and passion. Brittany has been invited to participate in numerous projects including Work Beyond the Phones and the Suggestions Team that were part of the Strategic Business Team at GCWW alongside Director, Cathy B. Bailey. She has represented GCWW at events such as Blink and the Taste of Cincinnati.

Brittany graduated from G.A. Dater High School with honors in 2004. She was accepted into the University of Cincinnati's Design, Art, Architecture and Planning where she majored in Fashion Design with a minor in Urban Planning.

As a teenager, Brittany learned how to use her artistic ability as an expression to speak to her passion for social justice. She was part of a program called Art in the Market, which allowed inner-city youth to display their artistic capabilities by designing and creating public artwork in Findlay Market. Following the civil unrest that occurred in 2001, she was featured as a teen artist in the Cincinnati Enquirer for designing a mural that focused on healing the city.

In her free time, you will find Brittany spending quality time with her family including her teenage daughter Amirah (MiMi), sophomore at De Paul Cristo Rey.
